

Advantum Health's EHR Optimization Service Improves Clinical and Financial Success

Getting the Most from Your EHR

The last decade of meaningful use incentives and the drive towards value-based, coordinated care has encouraged most of today's healthcare providers to implement electronic health records (EHRs) in their practices. If chosen, implemented and used correctly for your specialty and individual practice, they can support not only efficient clinical care but improve workflow efficiency and deliver data needed to optimize your financials. But if not, an EHR can have a significant negative impact on your operational costs and your ability to code, bill and receive full and prompt reimbursement.

That's why Advantum Health, a leader in revenue cycle management, offers EHR Optimization Services. Our extensive consulting experience with EHR buying decisions and countless implementations and enhancements of existing systems across many brands and specialties has given us the ability to drill down into your needs and recommend and implement the ways to meet them. We can guide you through all aspects of selecting, implementing, training and evolving the EHRs use to support both caregiving and drive efficient operations to maximize your financial compensation.

A well-chosen and utilized EHR drives a well-run, financially successful practice

Advantum Health Improves Outcomes with System and Process Expertise

Advantum Health's EHR Optimization Services

- ▶ Consulting and training services help you select a new system or optimize an existing implementation for ease of use and support of clinical and financial outcomes

Advantum Health Investment Optimizes EHR to Improve Financial Results

You and your team are incredibly busy serving your patients. Why not seek expert assistance in choosing and/or optimizing your EHR...the driver to all facets of your operations and, ultimately, your bottom line? Take advantage of our team's expertise to ensure your system is well-chosen and configured to support revenue cycle operations including processes, templates and workflows customized to meet your needs. Our team automates your EHR, practice management (PM) and clearinghouse functions to reduce manual workload; and much more. These services are designed to free you to deliver the best possible care outcomes and get paid — quickly and completely — for the value-focused, patient-centric services you provide.

Our user-friendly, interactive dashboards integrate with any EHR or PM system and, leveraging the data from your EHR, can quickly provide you invaluable insight into overall accounts receivable, RCM operations and denials, using real-time graphs to show a quick view of the revenue cycle and comparisons to industry and specialty-specific benchmarks.

From initial evaluation of your unique situation to implementation, workflow analysis, and ongoing analytics to measure success, Advantum Health EHR Optimization Services are designed to optimize not only your clinical operations but your financial and administrative ones as well.
